Getting Ready For Ice Sports

The weather has made the followers of ice games anxious to get going.

The Curling Club, engaged Mr. A. W. Axtell, and busy making the necessary repairs to the building, and also making the ice. If the cold weather keeps up, it is expected the "stones and brooms" will be in use next week. The membership committee reports good success in signing up members, and practically all the old brigade will again be in the game, and several new members are on the books.

The club expects to have twelve rinks up to Christmas, with the possible addition of two or three rinks after that time.

The skating rink has been put into good shape, and Mr. Noble Cole engaged to take charge.

The hockey boys have organized, and the manager declares they have the making of a first-class team. An effort is being made to re-organize the Rosebud League, but failing this, they may join the Calgary Intermediate League. In any event, some real games of hockey are provided for the coming season.

On Friday, November 28th, the hockey boys will hold an Old Time Dance, and a real time is assured. Admission, including lunch, will be 50c.

Cremona Elevator To Open Next Week

We understand that the elevator at Cremona is to be completed and in operation by the first of next week. This news is quite welcome to farmers of the district, as unusually heavy yields are being recorded, with wheat running from 20 to 50 bushels to the acre, and coarse grain from 50 to 100 bushels. There are also reports that other elevator companies will build soon. The laying of the rails is at present held up at the bridge over the Dog Pound.

Deer Hunter Killed Near Eagle Hill

Eagle Hill has again been stirred by tragedy, in the accidental shooting of Stanley Ronneberg, 24, by his nephew and hunting companion, Clifford Kjorevik, 21, at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Mistaking the moving grey of Ronneberg's sweater for a deer, Kjorevik fired his 25-35 rifle from a distance of about 80 yards, to see his uncle stumble in his tracks. Kjorevik stayed with his uncle, while a foster-brother of Ronneberg's who had been hunting with them, ran for a doctor.

Before Constable Walter B. Dobbin of the Olds detachment, A.P.P., and Dr. C. C. Hartman, Olds coroner arrived on the scene, Ronneberg had died. Further investigations were being made on Monday, and it was expected an inquest would be held Monday or Tuesday night.

Ronneberg, Kjorevik, and Ingvell Rennie, 20, the former's half-brother, left early on Sunday afternoon in search of deer, which are plentiful in the foothills west of Eagle Hill. They were about two and a half miles from Ronneberg's home, when they separated in dense brush. Kjorevik was tramping through thick snow, when he thought he saw a deer, and shot his uncle.

When they got to him, Ronneberg still had presence of mind enough to tell them to fetch a doctor.

Another overflowing audience was in attendance at the Evangelical Church last Sunday evening. The service, which was deeply spiritual, yet very joyous in tone and expression, was furnished by the Songster Brigade of the Calgary Salvation Army. The fervent prayers of those young people, and their gospel messages in song, as well as in speech, will long be remembered by most listeners as an admirable example of consecrated talent in the service of the Lord. The Thanksgiving note rang high throughout the entire service, resulting in a thanks-offering for missions being $189.00, fifty-two dollars of this amount, however, belongs to the credit of the Sunnyslope appointment.

The Mayfair Talkies In Peace River District

The talking-picture circuit which Mr. W. H. B. Sharp has established in the Peace River district is meeting with great success. Mr. Joe Sharp left Didsbury with the outfit on the 25th October, and is in charge of the circuit.

ROLLA, B.C., Nov. 7.—The first all-talking picture to be shown in this part of the north country was presented in this town last night.

Crowds motored to see it from far and near, including points beyond Fort St. John, Pouce Coupe, and Dawson Creek. The theatre, which is the only one in the Peace River block, was packed to the limit of its seating capacity, making a record attendance since this theatre was opened last December with silent pictures. The reception was on a par with that of the Edmonton and Vancouver theatres. The equipment of this theatre is the latest in the Holmes sound equipment.

Rolla, it is believed, marks the home of the most northerly part of British Columbia with all-talking pictures.—Edmonton Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Schade, of Sioux Look-out, Ontario, are visiting his sister, Mrs. J. Clarke. Mr. Schade is a pilot on the Western Airways.

What Does Your Work Mean To You?

In the current issue of a well known magazine there is an article, bearing the title "Do You Ever Get Off On the Wrong Foot?" which discusses the problems of people who at some stage in their career come to the conclusion that they are square pegs in round holes. In a word, that they do not fit; that they have made a mistake in the choice of their business occupation or professional calling, and, as a result, are not making the progress they feel they should make and their abilities entitle them to make.

On the other hand, a daily newspaper is at present running a series of short sketches of men who in their boyhood or early manhood had ambitions along certain lines, but circumstances, environment, fate, call it what you will, decided otherwise, and instead of being what in those other days they "wanted to be," they have achieved success in radically different walks of life.

In this present period of world-wide depression, a temporary period when we are for the first time feeling and suffering the real aftermath of the Great War, doubtless many people are asking themselves the question: Have I got off on the wrong foot? Am I a square peg in a round hole? Should I make a change, abandon the business, trade or profession in which I am or have been engaged and try something new and different?

Possibly at this time farmers particularly may be inclined to indulge in such questioning as they contemplate the many vicissitudes which agriculture has undergone during the past two years as a result of climatic conditions, marketing difficulties, and a selling price for their products below the actual cost of production. The present outlook may not look promising to them, any more than it does to the city wage-earner. The question, however, which both classes must consider is whether, after all, any change would be better.

For example, if the man engaged in agriculture really likes farming and a rural life, and that degree of independence resulting from the fact that he is his own boss, preferring these to the limitations of a salaried position in town or city, the paid servant of others, and breathing the air of congested centres of population, then he has not made a mistake; he is not a misfit. Nor is the city man in the wrong place if on his part the open-air life and activities of the farm and the less strenuous life of rural communities makes no appeal to him.

Possibly in both city and country, and with men in all occupations and callings in life, some part at least of their dissatisfaction with their own condition is to be found in their failure to fully grasp all the opportunities of their present vocation.

In the magazine article to which reference has already been made, the story is told of a man in middle life who, dissatisfied with his position and the progress he was making, came to the parting of the ways. An orphan, forced to make his way at the age of thirteen, he took a humble position in a food commission warehouse. In course of time he became a salesman, acquired a family and a house worth four thousand dollars, and at forty-two was working long hours every day for forty dollars a week. An opportunity presented itself to become produce manager in a newly organized business at fifty dollars a week, but he was required to invest two thousand in the business. He mortgaged his house to raise the money, and took on the new job. But the promoter of the business was inexperienced, and in ten months it failed, with the result that this man lost his money and ruined his health by worry. He then took stock of "himself." He realized he knew a little about a whole lot of vegetables, but did not know everything there was to know about any one of them. So, on the advice of a friend, this man went back to his old job and worked two years more during which time he made close and expert study of one particular vegetable for which there was an all-year-round demand. He learned where the best varieties were grown, and by whom; refrigerating methods; packing methods; costs; who bought that particular variety of vegetable; ways to use it; everything. Then he launched into business in a rented dark basement, dealing exclusively in that one particular vegetable. Today he heads a huge and profitable business and is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The point is just this: Is the dissatisfied agriculturist farming in any old way in haphazard fashion, sowing any kind of seed, good and clean or not; using any kind of scrub cattle, indifferent breeds of poultry, or other farm stock? Is the dissatisfied city artisan, or clerk, or business man, just drifting along, doing what comes to his hand, without giving much heed to the method of doing it? Is the carpenter, for instance, content to be merely a "saw and hammer" man instead of studying and striving to become efficient and an expert in his work? Is the merchant plodding along lines of least resistance but making no mental effort to study the requirements of his particular field and the needs, even the fads, of his customers?

In a word, are we treating our present occupations in life merely and solely as a means of physical existence in life, or are we finding some real pleasure and satisfaction in the work itself? If the former is our approach to our work we will, of course, be dissatisfied with it and with ourselves, and ultimate failure must result. If, on the other hand, the work itself means something to us, and we take a keen interest in it, study it and its possibilities, constantly strive for its improvement, then satisfaction will result, leading to contentment and a reasonable measure of success.

Three New Industrial Plants Operated At Recent Ceremony

The town of Estevan on September 24th opened three new industrial plants at a ceremony attended by some 300 leading business and professional men of Western Canada; and "The Mercury," in a special issue, notes the recent progress of this town of 3,000 persons, the extent of whose agricultural and mineral wealth is only beginning to be realized. Among other things, it boasts of having the only plant in Canada making stone-grey building brick and of having the largest nurseries in the Dominion.

The Aeroplane and Geodesy

Problem Of Survey Work In Remote Districts Has Been Solved

The aeroplane has solved one of the problems of the Geodetic Survey of Canada. In those districts which are traversed by neither roads nor railways, travel is slow and at times almost impossible. Obstruction is met everywhere in measuring the points in the great triangulation net which is gradually covering the whole of the Dominion. By means of the aeroplane most of these difficulties have been set aside.

Russia Is Selling

Soviets Take That Method To Raise Money For Treasury

Soviet dumping of wheat and other products abroad at a time when the supplies are urgently needed in Russia itself is in the nature of "tax" collection under the Russian system, says the Financial Post, which continues:

"In Soviet Russia, the word taxation has no such meaning as Western minds attach to it. Holding private ownership to be unethical, the government itself is officially the owner of all property. Consequently, there is none for it to tax. Proclaiming private profits to be opposed to human welfare, it officially permits the accumulation of no incomes which might be taxed. It is obliged, therefore, to obtain its revenue from the actual products of the mines, forests, and farms which it operates or to take as taxes the produce of those who still operate privately—mainly the unsocialized peasants. But since it cannot operate a treasury directly with wheat and lumber, it must sell these articles in the outside world.

"This is what it is doing to the extent even of leaving its own people on the verge of starvation. Officially they are permitted to eat only what is distributed to them by the government, and the heavy purchases of machinery abroad mean that the people at home must be kept to the very lowest limit of supplies."

Administration Of Lands And Other Resources Of The West Passes Under Provincial Control

The present year terminates the administration by the Dominion Government of the lands and other resources of the three Prairie Provinces, and of the areas in British Columbia known as the Peace River Block and the Railway Belt. These resources now pass under provincial control.

One of the notable changes involvthese were never completed the magnitude of this land business may be judged from the fact that the entries represent, at 160 acres each, nearly 100,000,000 acres of land.

As the accompanying diagram shows, homestead activity reached its peak in the three or four years immediately preceding the War. While the last two years have brought a decided spurt in the number of entries, ed is that the historic Dominion home stead policy now gives way to such land policies as may be framed by the several provinces concerned. For nearly sixty years the homestead system has played a cardinal role in the disposal of what have been known as "Dominion Lands," and in the advance of Canadian development. Since 1900 nearly 600,000 homestead entries have been made, and while many of the post-War period, generally speaking, has witnessed only a moderate degree of homesteading activity. The rise and fall of homestead entries illustrates perhaps better than anything else the fact that in more recent times the granting of homesteads has not been the all-absorbing task for the Department of the Interior that it was fifteen or twenty years ago.

A New Yorker On Canada

Points Out Several Points Of Superiority Over U.S.

Charles Johnston, who is one of the most scholarly of New York reviewers, contributes an article to the New York Times Book Review on the Cambridge history volumes on Canada and Newfoundland. He gathers from "this admirable historical study," that the Canadian view of American affairs "has a certain definite atmosphere, which may, perhaps, be described as modest superiority. Not that there is any boasting. The points of superiority simply emerge in passing. For example, we set some store by the year 1492, underlining its significance by an annual holiday. The Canadian date is 1472, when John Scolop the Dane, reached Canadian territory in the region of Labrador. We commemorate the founding of Jamestown in 1607, and of the Pilgrim State in 1620. But the year 1534 marks "the birth of Canada." Again we celebrate July 4, but here also, Canada outstrips us, for July 3 is the birthday of Quebec, in the year 1608. Finally the fact slips out that the area of Canada is greater not only than that of the United States including its dependency Alaska—incidentally it may be added also greater than Brazil, the third largest country in the Western Hemisphere.

Disturbing Nature's Balance

Disastrous Results Often Follow The Introduction Of Insects Or Animals From Foreign Climes

A scientist of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia brings from the West Indies an account of another of the many recorded instances of the unfortunate results of man's interference with the "balance of nature." Monkeys, the offspring of animals supposed to have been liberated by sailors or slave traders many years ago, and the mongoose, brought from India to cope with an excess of rats and snakes, are both said to have preyed to such an extent upon the birds and their nests that certain species of the birds have been virtually exterminated or driven to other localities.

One of the best known instances of the disastrous results of the artificial upset of the balance of nature is found in the rabbit pest in Australia and New Zealand. These animals, introduced originally for food or for sport, have increased to such an extent that great sums have been spent in a vain effort to eradicate them. Such occurrences justify the skepticism that is always voiced when insects or animals are brought from distant climes to cope with pests. There is always the peril of creating a new and more serious pest.—New York Evening Post.

New Machinery Needed

Development Of Flax And Hemp Making Machinery Offers Opportunity

In handling crops such as flax and hemp when so much labour is involved, the need of new machinery that will lower the cost of production can not be overemphasized, observes the Fibre Specialist of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, in his annual report. Special attention is now being given to the processing of flax and hemp at the present time, and it is expected that some way of speeding up production in scutching and retting will soon be found. The development of flax and hemp working machinery provides one of the greatest opportunities to Canadian enterprise at the present time.

Conscience Wakes Up

It is not only evaders of income tax who sometimes become conscience stricken and make restitution after the lapse of a long period of time. Reassurance For Wheat Growers Of Canada

No Cause For Pessimism Says Well Informed Bank Official

There is reassurance for Canadian wheat growers and, therefore, for the whole of Canada in the review of world market conditions given to the Toronto Mail and Empire by Mr. B. P. Alley, assistant general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. As Mr. Alley has charge of the bank's business throughout western Canada, and as he must, therefore, be specially well-informed regarding the wheat export trade, his remarks upon the existing situation may be accepted as authoritative. Without presuming to speak dogmatically, he points out several influential factors in the marketing developments of recent months. One of these factors is that the high prices which prevailed for wheat not so long ago induced an over-production of that commodity throughout the world. It brought into the field countries where the cost of production is high, and which cannot profitably produce wheat for sale at normal quotations.

Another thing is that in spite of prices so high that they discourage consumers, Canada last year sold more than the year's entire crop. Marketing prospects have improved in the importing countries of Europe and also in Japan and China. Nor is Russia likely soon to be as important a competitor in Liverpool or anywhere else, as some people have seemed to fear. This year's Canadian crop is considerably larger than last year's and it is of a particularly high quality. This means that, other things being equal and prices being as low as they are, Canadian wheat should take the lead on all buying markets from this time forward. All things considered, therefore, there seems to be every reason for hoping that a few months hence Canada may be back on the world's main street, exporting more wheat and wheat flour than any other nation on earth.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Horse Standard Improving

Better Class Of Hunters And Jumpers Being Bred

Both in number and in quality the situation in Canada as regards hunting or jumping horses is improving. It was stated by Lieut.-Col. Frank Moss, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Hunter, Saddle and Light Horse Improvement Society, who spoke on the work of his organization to delegates of the Canadian Cavalry Association, in annual convention at Ottawa.

Colonel Moss said the society, with the aid of government grants, was generally making progress in its aim to interest the farming communities in the breeding of hunters. Practically 50 per cent. of all hunters bred on farms were suited for cavalry work, he said.

Winter Holiday Trips

Canadian Pacific Offers Special Inducements To The Winter Traveller

Sharp stimulus to winter travel in Western Canada this year is forecast by Canadian Pacific Railway officials in Winnipeg, chief among the contributing factors being the many special trains arranged to connect with special sailings to the Old Country for Christmas and New Year's. While this rail movement will be easterly, there are also many interesting winter features in the west that annually bring thousands of easterners, Canadians and Americans, to the winter playground of the northwest.

The Banff Carnival is now known all over the civilized world, and another western winter sporting event that has become firmly fixed on the calendar is the mid-winter golf tournament, sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Hotels, At Victoria, capital City of British Columbia.

This tournament, started in 1928, enters its third year next February, when, from February 23 to 28, a host of golfers will gather in the Pacific Northwest in quest of the Beatty challenge trophy. The tournament is being held this season at the Oak Bay course of the Victoria Golf Club, where all-winter golf is one of the feature attractions of Vancouver Island's evergreen playground.

As a special inducement to winter travellers, low round trip fares have been named by the Company to Eastern Canada and Central States, commencing December 1st, and to the Pacific Coast during December, January and part of February. These tickets are considerably lower in price than the ordinary fare and bear a much longer limit.

Number Of Farms Reduced

United States Census Bureau Records Decrease Of 2.3 Per Cent. Since 1920

A reduction in five years of 73,763, or 1.2 per cent, in the number of farms in the United States was reported by the census bureau on the basis of complete returns from the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

The farms, which, under the census bureau definition, means a tract of land used for agricultural purposes composed of more than three acres or producing crops valued at $250 or more, totalled 6,297,877 as compared with 6,371,640 in 1925, when the last census of farms was taken.

This was a decrease of 2.3 per cent, in the number of farms since 1920, when the total was 6,448,343.

Fifth Of Series Of Studies In Plant Diseases

One of the most useful publications which has been published by the Federal Department of Agriculture recently is the fifth in the series of studies in plant diseases being carried out under the direction of the Dominion Botanist. This study deals with "Control methods for diseases of cereal, forage and fibre crops." It contains the latest findings of the Dominion Research Laboratories of plant pathology at Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Edmonton. The subjects dealt with include not only general rules useful in the control and eradication of cereal diseases, but specific recommendations for the treatment of a wide variety of specific cereal diseases. The crops dealt with include wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, millet, flax, sunflowers, alfalfa, sweet clover and common clover. This circular, No. 123 New Series, is available without charge on application to the Publications Branch of the Department at Ottawa.

30,000,000 Acres Of Land Under Cultivation In The Province

Recent reports show that the Province of Saskatchewan has grown from 60,000 farms in operation with 2,000,000 acres in crop when the province was organized in 1905 to 118,000 farms with 30,000,000 acres under cultivation at the present time. Also, the province is now organized along agricultural lines; the wheat pool having 80,000 members while various other farmers' organizations are operating to the benefit of the producers.

WOULD GLADLY PAY $1,000 FOR TREES ONCE HAD

Here is the story of a man who cut down all the trees on his farm.

The man who owned these fine trees did not realize that in a few years when he had destroyed the fiber in his soil and had no trees to protect his farm from high winds, he would pay a great deal to get a few hundred back again.

In the older parts of the province where farmers have for the most part cleared all their land, they suffered great losses this spring from drifting soil and having seed blown out. Their only hope now is to get some grass seed started to bind the soil together with fibrous roots. Loss of trees often brings a great loss of rainfall and in many areas it is difficult to get grass seed to take root.

A well known farmer in the central area advised the writer that he would gladly pay $1,000 a quarter to have a few rows of trees running from east to west. He pointed out that these trees would catch and hold the snow in the fall, they would protect the farm from high winds and save him much valuable time reseeding in the spring and also great loss of valuable top soil.

This man said he once had his farm covered with bush and trees but at that time it was the ambition of every farmer to get his place cleared up as soon as possible. Many farmers got rid of their trees with brush cutters, axes and fire. During the last five years many have started to buy seedlings from nurseries to plant wind breaks about their buildings and all would gladly pay a lot of money to get a few good clumps of trees to protect their fields.

Farmers who are now fortunate enough to have protection for farm and home in the form of heavy brush and trees should take care to keep them. In years to come the man who destroys his trees will gladly pay money to get them back again.

RUGBY NOTES

Rugby W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Vipond for the November meeting. There was a rather small attendance, perhaps the missing members had gone deer hunting with the rest of the community. When the afternoon's business was concluded, Mrs. Whitesides took up "Current events". This was followed by a report on legislation and a contest on the constitution and by-laws of the A. W. I. The winners in this contest being Mrs. Farrant, Mrs. J. Hughes and Mrs. Carlson. The meeting then adjourned with the singing of the national anthem and lunch was served. The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Krebs and it is asked that all members make a special effort to be present at the business meeting of the year.

ALWAYS SOME CROP

Diversification Safeguards Farmer
Against a Complete Loss of Crop in a Year

The diversified era of farming has always brought a more prosperous and permanent development of a country. Already older sections of Western Canada are beginning to diversify their farming operations. According to many leading agriculturists, it is the alternative to huge industrialized farming. Industrialized farming will not provide the happy, independent, large rural population that is a result of the smaller farming operations.

The growing of one crop, wheat for example, exclusively, results in a decreased yield and quality due to depleted fertility. An impaired physical condition of the soil, with weeds, insects and soil drifting, is apt to result. A worn out soil is a poor heritage for another generation. A one crop system is unsafe.

But it is rarely that a season rises completely unfavorable to all crops. Times have been known when the wheat was a failure through drought but rains came in time for the clover, alfalfa, etc. If a farm produces wheat, flax, clover, alfalfa, root crops, etc., it is rarely indeed that none of these will make good. There will be feed for the livestock and livestock adds more to the certainty of some return.

Again, few farmers can afford to buy meat, milk, butter, fruit and vegetables. Yet quantities of these must be used, and a good living off the farm is one of the first essentials to success.

Again, the wise rotation of crops, the fertilization from running stock, repairs the impoverished soil and builds it up, so that a higher yield may be expected from the same acreage.

TRUE SEED

Major Strange, prominent member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, emphasized to a party of visiting British farmers the virtues of Canadian wheat.

"Canadian wheat is conceded to have certain factors contained by no other wheat in the world to the same degree," said Major Strange; "and these factors, qualities of protein and gluten, have the property of giving to a loaf of bread, that is mainly made from a mixture of soft wheats, spring and strength, palatability and quality which the loaf would not have without an admixture of Canadian wheat." Millers the world over prize these qualities highly, he declared, and it is absolutely certain that every loaf of white bread contains some percentage of Canadian wheat.

ECONOMY

"This high quality is not the result, as commonly supposed, of the soil and climate of Canada," said the speaker, "but is the result of the variety of wheat used." Use of the wrong variety, he declared, would produce poor wheat, even in Canada.

The Canadian variety which particularly showed this quality was Red Fife wheat, said Major Strange, and was brought over from Scotland to Ontario by William Fife in 1842. It is one of the parents of Marquis Wheat, the standard of Canada.

Relief Activities

Hon. Howard McConnell Reviews Relief Work In Saskatchewan Drought Areas

Details of relief activities in the dried-out areas of Saskatchewan undertaken by the Provincial Government and by the municipalities affected, with governmental aid, are given in a statement issued for publication by Hon. Howard McConnell, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Municipal Affairs in the Saskatchewan Government. Text of the statement follows:

"In connection with relief given to farmers in the dried-out areas of our province last year, the Provincial Government distributed $919,000. This was made up as follows:

- 1.—Freight paid by province on fodder shipped to such areas$450,000
- 2.—Relief roads built by province in such areas$350,000
- 3.—Relief provided by Government for flour, fuel and fodder together with seed grain in Local Improvement Districts in such areas$119,000

Total$919,000

"The rural municipalities in such areas contributed $1,954,000 for the relief of farmers in such areas, particulars of which are as follows:

- 1.—Sums advanced by municipalities to farmers within their borders for relief purposes to purchase flour, fuel and fodder$1,750,000
- 2.—Sums advanced by municipalities to farmers resident within their borders for seed grain$ 204,000

Total$1,954,000

"Urban municipalities received from the Government for unemployment relief, $50,000. The Provincial Government guaranteed the repayment to the banks of all loans made by the banks to such municipalities to enable them to dispense such relief.

"This year again, the major portion of the municipalities suffering drought last year, are again experiencing adverse conditions. The position of a great many of the people residing in such areas is serious. To assist the farmers in these areas this coming fall and winter, the Government is spending approximately $1,500,000 in relief road camps, between forty and fifty such camps having been already established. Further, to assist many municipalities, the Government is advancing this year, next year's municipal road grants. In some municipalities where the situation requires more than ordinary attention, but where road camps were not established, the Government is contributing to such municipalities an extra grant. The Government appreciates that such road camps do not completely solve the situation in these municipalities, but they do permit the residents in these areas to receive $1,500,000 on account of such road work. These camps will be continued until freeze-up. On account of adverse conditions, the Government is not asking for any contributions from such municipalities toward such road work.

"Further, to assist the farmers of these dried-out areas, the Government is again, this year, paying one-half of the freight on all hay and fodder shipped into these areas by the railways, the railways paying the other half of the freight. The portion of such freight chargeable to the Government this year, will approximate $500,000.

"Requests have been made on behalf of a great many of the municipalities in the dried-out areas that the Government, with the assistance of the railways, supply coal free of all freight charges, to the residents of such dried-out areas. The Government approached the railways with a request that the railways absorb one-half of all the freight charges on Saskatchewan-mined coal shipped to the dried-out areas for relief purposes, agreeing to pay the other half of such freight. The railways, however, were unable to agree to this proposal. The Government has decided, therefore to assume one-half of all freight charges on coal mined in Saskatchewan and shipped to the rural municipalities in the dried-out areas, on their order, for relief purposes in such rural municipalities, this policy to take effect immediately.

"The expenditure incurred and to be incurred by the Government this year in granting relief to the residents of the dried-out areas, will approximate $2,500,000. The Government is receiving from the Federal Treasury the sum of $500,000 for relief purposes in the dried-out areas. This $500,000, it will be seen, will only take care of a small portion of the money which the Government has spent this fall and is spending for such relief in such areas.

"The Federal Government is further assisting Saskatchewan in the matter of unemployment by a further contribution of $1,000,000 to be used in assisting to pay for certain public works to take care of unemployment in the municipalities of this province. For every dollar that the Federal Government puts up, the Provincial Government must contribute one dollar and the municipality receiving such assistance must pay two dollars. In other words, if the contribution of $1,000,000 from the Federal Government is spent, then the total amount that the Provincial Government must contribute will be $1,000,000, while the municipalities must contribute $2,000,000, thus making a total of $4,000,000.

"This year, as last year, the Government again proposes to continue to guarantee the banks against loss for loans made by them to the municipalities in districts where, on account of crop failures or other adverse conditions, such assistance is necessary. Further details in connection with the administration of relief will be worked out in due course.

"The Government wants to emphasize that all public works proposed by municipal authorities, must be planned to provide the maximum amount of employment with the minimum expenditure of materials on such works. Any project which does not keep this in mind, cannot be entertained by the Government. It wishes to emphasize again, that the relief to be distributed is to be distributed only to those municipalities whose resources are insufficient to enable them to provide for their own unemployment. This is a fundamental principle laid down by the Federal Government and will not be departed from."

Five Day Work Week

American Federation Of Labor Gives Support To Movement

The American Federation of Labor annual convention at Boston, gave its full support to the five-day work week movement. Definite action on the five-hour work day was deferred for another year.

In endorsing the five-day work week, the convention concurred with the report of the federation executive council. Figures submitted by the council showed that more than 500,000 members of the federation are now working a five-day week. The statistics indicated that the movement had made greatest strides in the building trades industry.

The question of the five-hour work day was referred to the executive council with instructions that it make an exhaustive study of the entire work day problem and report at the next annual convention with recommendations for the length of the work day and work week.

The report of the committee on a shorter work week expressed the belief that the shortened work day would not be the absolute cure for unemployment. It made reference to the part played by wages, saying: "Unemployment such as we have experienced in our country, is manifestly due, principally to the fact that wages paid have not increased in proportion to our per capita production in industry, transportation and farming."

The report also said the present business depression was not due to the collapse of the stock market, but to a condition which developed during the past six or seven years.

A MILLION FAT FOLKS CAN'T BE WRONG

And that's a low estimate of the number taking Kruschen to keep down superfluous fat.

When you take vitalizing Kruschen Salts for a few days that old indolent arm - chair feeling deserts you - it doesn't matter how fat you are - the urge for activity has got you - and you're "stepping lively."

And best of all you like this activity - you walk a couple of miles and enjoy it - you thought you'd never dance again, but you find you're getting as spry as ever - the old tingling, active feeling reaches even your feet.

Kruschen is a combination of the six salts Nature has already put into your body to keep you alive - if it were not for these vital salts you could not live.

One bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel younger - spryer - more energetic - you'll enjoy life - every minute of it.

A half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning is all you need to keep healthy - keep your stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys in splendid condition - free your system from harmful toxins and acids.

Licensed Taxidermists

Under the Migratory Birds Act, no person is allowed to engage in the business of taxidermist without first having secured a license to do so from the Minister of the Interior. The taxidermist must not handle any bird that has been illegally killed, and every year he must make such returns as the Minister may require.

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

"Thank goodness then, that you didn't discover me before!"

"Is it so awful—kissing me?" asked Nick.

"It would be awful kissing you good-bye," answered his wife demurely.

"For that," he said, putting his arm about her, "you shall have another!"

"Gay," he continued with mock severity, "we're downright silly. I wouldn't have believed we could behave so. And I suppose you're right. We've sponged on Mr. Bartlett long enough. Say, let's ask the old man up to supper. It would tickle him to death."

So Simeon Bartlett was their first guest. He arrived panting, after the hard pull up the foot path that led from the wood road.

"I take this kindly, ma'am," he said, sinking down breathless on the porch, and mopping the dampness from his brow with a huge handkerchief. Although evening was approaching he carried his umbrella. Indeed, he seemed almost afraid to give it up when Gay offered to relieve him of it.

"Never travel without it, ma'am," he repeated. "Shouldn't hardly feel at home if it wa'n't along. Well, well, this looks real cosy, don't it? Built this place for my old woman, ma'am, before I got so confounded fleshy. Time was when I could come up that path without batten' an eyelash, same as Nick here. A good boy, Nick. You didn't make no mistake when you picked him out."

"She didn't do the picking," laughed Nick. "I picked her, and then didn't give her time to think about it."

"Well, well," chuckled the old man, "just you take care that she don't regret it. By gorry! this ain't by any chance your honeymoon, be it?"

Gay blushed; but Nick only laughed at their guest's embarrassing interrogation.

"We hadn't been married ten minutes when you met us, Mr. Bartlett." In an instant the old man was serious.

"You ain't runnin' away from your folks, be you?" he asked soberly. "If so, it's my advice fer you to go straight home and make it up. I—"

"You needn't worry a minute about that," Nick interrupted, and Mr. Bartlett brightened perceptibly.

"Tain't a good thing to quarrel with yer folks," he continued, sinking back comfortably in his chair. "I wouldn't advise it ever, though they's times when families act awful pernickity. But it's no way to begin life—runnin' off an' gettin' married secret like. Tain't a good thing to remember. You got to think o' that, boy. Everything you do now—every darn mean thoughtless little act'll come back to you when your work's done, and you got time to set down and think it over. Once when I wa'n't more than six year old I cheated at an egg race. 'Twas at a Sunday School picnic. I didn't hardly know I was cheatin' till afterward; but I took the prize (it was a whistle, ma'am, hung on a red silk cord), and I ain't never been able to forget it. Well, I'm glad you ain't quarreled with yer folks."

"We have none to quarrel with," said Nick.

"Not—neither of you?"

Nick shook his head. He boldly put an arm about his wife and drew her closer. "So you see," he said to Mr. Bartlett, though his eyes sought Gay's, "we seem to belong together."

"That's right," responded the old man. "That's the way to feel; and don't you ever let nothin' come between you. Don't lie. If the time comes when you make a fool o' yourself, Nick, you just own up, and if yer wife loves you she'll forgive an awful lot. The good book says that the peace o' God passeth all understandin', but I don't b'lieve it's a mite more wonderful than the love o' woman. What a woman'll put up with—Well, I'll say this, son: you're a good boy, but you prob'ly ain't one third good enough for her."

"I fear I'm not," agreed Nick readily; but Gay laughed, and asked if her husband was to get all the good advice.

Simeon Bartlett chuckled. "I don't aim to advise a lady," he said gallantly, "but if I was urged I'd say don't tie him too close to yer apron strings, ma'am. Give him plenty o' rope to run on; and don't mind when he notices a pretty face. It's agin natur for a young feller like Nick not to see 'em, and it's a darn sight safer if he ain't afraid to mention 'em to his wife. Just so you're sure he loves you, you ain't got a thing to worry about. Jealousy, ma'am, has made more unhappiness than strong drink; though I ain't on speakin' acquaintance with either, you might say, always bein' sure o' my old woman, and signin' the pledge at twelve year old. Do I smell chowder, ma'am?"

"That sounds," laughed Gay, "like a gentle hint for supper. Shall we have it here on the porch?"

"That would suit me fine, ma'am. Me and my old woman used to eat here summer evenin's. Sometimes the hermit thrushes would sing for us. We called 'em our orchestra; and a darn sight prettier music it was then what comes out o' the brass band over to Meller's Falls."

"We'll agree on that," said Nick. "They sang the night we came here. I told Gay it was a bridal chorus, sung specially for us."

"And I don't doubt it was, sonny," said the old man gently. "You run along now and help your missus dish up supper. You don't need to make company o' me; and I ain't one that b'lieves a man's place is on the front porch while his wife is rastlin' with the kitchen stove or the dish pan."

"Nor am I," said Nick, rising to obey. "You can ask Gay if I'm not a champion dish-washer."

It was a festive little supper, and Simeon Bartlett pronounced his hostess a "first class cook," a tribute that brought the happy color into Gay's cheeks, and a proud light to her husband's eyes. Later, when the world was drenched in moonlight, they escorted Mr. Bartlett home.

"I've had a real good time," he said in parting. "Don't know as I've enjoyed anything so much since my old woman went away. Stay as long as ever you're a mind to, but not a minute longer. I know how 'tis. Once I had that longin' to see new things myself; but it's long years now since home seemed the best place of all. Gorry! if it wa'n't for all the things I've got to remember, I'd a'most envy you, startin' out with the whole o' life before you. Goodnight, youngsters; and don't you go forgettin' the good advice I give you."

He chuckled, but Nick said soberly: "I shan't forget, sir."

"Nor shall I," Gay promised. She laid a gentle hand on the old man's. "If I don't make Nick happy it won't be because I forgot your warnings, and—I thank you."

"You're a good girl," he answered, patting her hand before releasing it. "You've given a lonely old man a happy evening."

"What a dear he is," said Gay, as they rode away. She felt suddenly reluctant to leave this kind old friend, standing alone before a house that showed no welcoming lights.

Nick looked at her tenderly.

"You're something of a dear yourself, Gay. I could see that you took old Simeon's heart by storm. Poor old chap! His wife's been dead for years, but he always speaks as if she had just left him. I'm glad we thought to have him up for supper."

"It was you who thought of it," said Gay. "You think of everybody." She moved closer, to rest her cheek against his arm. "Nick. . . ."

"Well?" Nick questioned, as no words seemed forthcoming.

"I've been wondering. . . ."

"Wondering what?" He looked at her amusedly. "It seems to be difficult to say."

"It is. — Nick—I think you're wonderful!"

"Is that all?" Nick queried, with a slow smile.

"No. There's a problem been troubling me all evening. I can't face it alone, and—"

"Of course you can't—you've got me to face it with you! But, my dear girl, I thought it was to escape such things as problems that we came away. Anyhow, we won't face it till we're back at camp. I'm going to take you the long way round. It's a glorious night to ride."

It was so glorious that they forgot the flight of time. It was late when they reached the cabin, but despite the hour they sat down together on the porch, and Nick reached for his wife's hand, twisting the slender wedding ring around her finger.

"You've guessed this was my mother's, haven't you? She told me to keep it till I found the one girl in the world. I used to think I'd never use it—or not for years and years. No settling down for me! I was to be a vagabond, you know—traverse the earth—conquer the world! Oh, Gay, what a kid I was, even a week ago!"

She stirred uneasily.

"And aren't you now?"

"My dear, how can I be a kid? I'm a married man!"

He was laughing; but Gay said soberly: "But—but I like having you a kid, Nick. You're only twenty-one. It—it's that. . . ."

"Oh!" said Nick. "I see. I'd forgotten the problem. Trot it out, young lady, and we'll go to it; though you've no moral right to produce the abominable thing on a quest for freedom."

WHEN PAIN COMES...

Two hours after eating

WHAT many call "indigestion" is very often nothing but excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. The best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard anti-acid with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this more pleasant way. A small bottle is sufficient to show its merit.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for more than 50 years in correcting excess acid. 50c a bottle; any drugstore. Complete directions for its many uses are enclosed with every bottle.

The Genuine Milk of Magnesia is always a liquid—never a tablet. Look for the Phillips' name on the bottle.

Burnside Notes

Mr. Richard Guenther has been seen going east lately. We wonder what the attraction is?

Lone Pine W.I. met on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. W. G. Dick. It was decided to hold another sewing course next summer. Mrs. Jack Elliot's baby was given one dollar to start a bank account with. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Cipperley, on December 4th, when an exchange of Christmas gifts takes place, and Mrs. Pross gives the topic, "Xmas Suggestions."

(Too Late for publication last week)

Messrs. Dave Jenkins and Nelson McLean were Calgary visitors last week.

Mr. James Tate went to Calgary last week, and invested in a flock of purebred sheep.

There was a dance in Stuart School last Friday evening, in aid of the new rink at Allingham.

Jack and Sam Elliott were in High River last week, to visit an uncle who has been very ill.

Mr. Albert Arlenson, of Burnside and Mrs. Walters, of Jutland, returned on Monday evening from Calgary, after attending the teachers convention, and visiting friends in the city.

There was a very interesting debate at the meeting of Burnside U. F. A. last Monday. The topic was, "Resolved that the present final examinations are not a fair basis for promotion." Mr. Albert Arlenson for the affirmative, and Mr. E. Dawson for the negative, argued well, and invited different members of the audience to help them. After a good discussion, in which many excellent points were brought out for both sides, the audience, who were to judge, voted by a close margin in favor of the affirmative.

Melvin Notes.

Miss Marjorie White spent the week-end in Calgary.

The Go-Getters have now 39 1/2 ft. of pennies.

Mrs. John Clark is spending a few days with Mrs. Everet Clark of Didsbury.

Mrs. Peter Johnston is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed Vetter, of Three Hills.

Those who attended the dance at Harmattan Friday night report an excellent time.

Mrs. Ed Vetter and little daughter, of Three Hills, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Johnston.

Several parties from this district are out hunting back west. Here's wishing them all good luck.

Miss Kynceel has greatly improved and we are pleased she was able to be moved from the hospital to her home at Elkton.

Don't forget the Go-Getters chicken supper, program, and dance at Melvin School, Wednesday, November 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sutherland, and daughter, of Morningside, Alberta, spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Youngs, and visited other friends in the Springside district.
